Amateur Athletic Waiver and Release of Liability

I know that participating in the Run4Rett 5k or 1k event on Sunday, September 20th, 2016 can be a potentially hazardous activity. I should not enter and participate unless I am medically able and properly trained. I agree to abide by any decision of a race official relative to my ability to safely complete the event. I assume all risks associated with participating in this event including, but not limited to: falls, contact with other participants, the effects of the weather, including cold, snow and/or ice, high heat and/or humidity, traffic and the conditions of the route, all such risks being known and appreciated by me. Having read this waiver and knowing these facts and in consideration of your accepting my entry, I, for myself and anyone entitled to act on my behalf, waive and release race organizers & any other entity involved with the event, its directors, officers, and staff, the city of Richmond Hill and its employees, and all sponsors, their representatives and successors from all claims or liabilities of any kind arising out of my participation in this event even though that liability may arise out of negligence or carelessness on the part of the persons named in this waiver. I grant permission to all of the foregoing to use any photographs, motion pictures, recordings or any other record of this event for any legitimate purpose. I understand that dogs on leashes, in-line skates and bicycles are prohibited and that violation of this prohibition will result in disqualification. By submitting this entry, I acknowledge having read, understood, and agree to the above waiver, release and indemnity.

What is Rett Syndrome?

Rett syndrome (RTT) is a neurodevelopmental condition characterized by the loss of spoken language and hand use, coupled with the development of distinctive hand stereotypies. This disorder is seen in infancy and occurs almost exclusively in females. It is usually caused by a mutation of the MECP2 gene on the X chromosome.

Rett syndrome is found in all racial and ethnic groups throughout the world. It affects one in every ten thousand live female births. Early developmental milestones appear normal, but between 6-18 months of age, there is a delay or regression in development, particularly affecting speech, hand skills and gait. A hallmark of Rett syndrome is repetitive hand movements that may become almost constant while awake. Other more common medical issues encountered include epileptic seizures, muscle stiffness, osteoporosis and scoliosis. Despite its multiple handicaps, Rett syndrome is not a degenerative disease. Many individuals with Rett syndrome live long into adulthood. There is currently no cure.

Our goal for the Run4Rett event is to:

- Raise awareness about Rett syndrome
- Raise funds to support the Thames Valley Children's Centre, the Children Hospital of Eastern Ontario and the Holland Bloorview Rehabilitation Hospital Rett Syndrome Clinics
- Fund the Canadian Rett Syndrome Registry
- Fund research and host conferences, scientific and medical symposiums.

All proceeds go to the Ontario Rett Syndrome Association.
